

WAVE

The Ultimate Wave Range

Naish delivers the only pro-level production waveboards on the market. While the top pros from other brands use custom boards that have nothing to do with the product, the entire Naish team has been riding production boards since day one. The result is the best of both worlds - the top riders including Robby Naish and Kai Lenny work directly with the design team to insure custom level performance, yet the boards have the incredible balance of durability, consistency and light weight that is only possible with production technology.
